

News: September 18th 2010

Life has been well although I look for a new meaning to life. I wanted to serve GOD in Kenya but I am not sure where that is leading. I have found a wonderful loving wife but I am still unsure how to get her here as money is tight. I have never been married and abstained for over 12 years and now the LORD is rewarding me for my faithfulness. I have a lot to figure out and do but not sure how to make it all happen. I need direction in my life. There is a constant struggle with my finances and it has not been easy.

I long to do something with my life but until the LORD opens a door I cannot do a thing. I am praying for financial recovery and sad that before all my finances were wasted by evil people. It just goes to say life without wisdom is miserable and people lose out. My folly was not praying for wisdom though what I did pray for I also recieved. I trust in GOD and lean on his understanding more and more and I am learning GOD is right and my judgement is folly without GOD.

Today is the day of Atonement and I am hoping GOD delivers me of my enemies and breaks their chain they created over me. I trust GOD because I have faith in his Word. AMEN...

Dale Lee Gordon